

Of Interest to Women

CURIOUSLY COMPLICATED

These Words Describe Some of the Season's Gowns.

By some strange art women have contrived this season to look smart in robes marked by a multitude of severity or line, and made often of materials and in colors that might well be chosen by those for whom the pomps and vanities of this world have no further attraction. At the same time the most gorgeous garnitures have been used with a lavishness that has foretold for a small portion on the corsage and a bit at the edge of the skirt, this band is veiled by the white chiffon tunic that forms a part of the gown, and on the skirt a little of it is doubly veiled as a result of the overlapping of the front edges of the tunic. Another note of color is added to the costume by the touque of embroidered gold and white tulle, and the navy blue of the gown is continued in the cluster of ostrich plumes that adorns the chapeau.

The fuchu drapery on the corsage is the most novel feature of the second gown. Coarse lace is used for the little vest and sleeves, and finer lace for the fuchu, both being arranged over cloth of gold. Lemon colored velvet is the material of the gown, and it is bordered with stunk. The skirt of this gown is of the kind, extremely nar-for them but a brief stay, and materials of many kinds have been combined in such a manner as to make some of the fashionable gowns more curiously and puzzlingly complicated affairs than have ever been known before.

Two elaborate evening gowns are illustrated to-day, the first of which is in white, with the striking addition of a deep border at the foot of navy blue velvet. One of the effects characteristic of the season's modes is obtained by a band of blue velvet overlaid with coarse lace, which is placed horizontally on the corsage and at one side falls to the hem of the skirt. DAILY DEVOTIONAL MEETINGS.

As the first week in January is observed as a week of prayer by many religious organizations, the Ladies' Christian Union is holding daily devotional meetings every morning this week at its usual place of meeting, the chapel of the Collegiate Church, Fifth avenue and 48th street. The first meeting was held Monday, January 2, at 11 o'clock, and they will be continued until Saturday.

Men as well as women are invited to attend, and tickets for single lectures may be obtained at the door.

Dr. George C. Knapp, who is giving "The Scientific Teaching of Agriculture," his experiments as a member of the United States Department of Agriculture have made him an enthusiast for scientific agriculture, and he has conducted a series of lectures showing how little old-fashioned farmers accomplish and how much those who adopt up-to-date scientific methods.

SUFFRAGE POSTER PRIZES

Best Drawings on Either Side of Question to Get the Money.

The National League for the Civic Education of Women has offered two prizes of $25 and $15 each for the best suffrage and anti-suffrage posters, and Mrs. Gilbert E. Jones, executive chairman, said yesterday that the cleverest posters would get the prizes, no matter which side they were on. The posters will be exhibited on January 30 at the headquarters of the league, No. 23 Madison avenue.

The league also announces a lecture by Richard Barry, author of a recent magazine article on the working of woman suffrage in Colorado, which attracted considerable attention. He will speak at the Lyceum Theatre on January 9 at 4 o'clock.

Some time during the last week in January, at the headquarters of the Republican Club in the 18th Assembly District, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Tunis Bergen will take the "anti" side against Mrs. Martha W. Suffren and Mrs. Grace G. Wolterbeck in a debate on woman suffrage.

On January 15 at the headquarters there will be an anti-suffrage conference, with various speakers, and on January 23 Dr. James Walsh will lecture at the Colony Club on "The Women of Two Great Republics."
